Lets Make Whoopee!

"Happy days are here again," and the Lacombe Hockey Club is going to prove it at a monster Carnival to be held in town skating rink, commencing October 1st and continuing to Saturday night, October 4th, and if all and sundry don't have the time of their lives, then we'll miss our guess.

The old reliable will be there, to entertain the proceedings: Art Belcher, Ted Chapman, Joe Taylor, Sam Murray, George Sheets, Bill Avery, Andy Leach, Harry Tocco, Dave Hay, Duke Parsons and dozens of others who we just can't think of off hand.

A miniature Golf Course is being prepared for the occasion, and if you play golf or not, you will want to try this thing out. "Jiggs" didn't care for it at first, and now he's a professional.

If you dance, the dance floor will be awaiting you, with the peppiest dance orchestra in Central Alberta in attendance.

The old reliable Bingo game will be in full swing, and the Ham Boil will be there too. Ring Your Money, Wooden Bottles, Duck Pond, Darts, Roulette, Barrels and other games of skill will be on the grounds to make your evenings the happiest of the year, and to enable you to win dolls, blankets, hams, lingerie, chocolates and hundreds of other valuable prizes.

Hot Dogs will be sold by Mr. Avery, which fact alone will make hundreds come to the show—for he knows his "Mustard".

Tickets will be on sale this week, and the price is only 10c, and enables you to a chance on one of the many valuable prizes being offered. By keeping the price low, it is believed that everyone will be enabled to attend the Big Event. Besides, the Lacombe Hockey Club, will need the money this season if they are to go through to the Senior Championship of Alberta, and perhaps capture the Dominion Honors. The team is capable of doing just that. So come to the Carnival, enjoy yourselves and assist the boys to obtain their objective.

Cut in Prices Likely Soon

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—In some instances producers are prepared and have given assurances, to utilize their facilities to the maximum and there will be a reduction in prices by reason of that very fact," said Premier Bennett in the House of Commons yesterday discussing the proposed tariff changes.

"As we proceed with the schedules later, I will mention the undertaking that has been given and the parties who gave it, and I believe when these are read to the House and when the country reads them, it will be seen for the first time that at least industry walks hand in hand with agriculture and labor for the purpose of securing a minimum cost of our products by reason of the utilization of the facilities which have been built up in our plants and mills throughout the country. What is more, Mr. Speaker, we are prepared to state our existence as a party and a Government upon that issue.

"I can only say that we realize there are large numbers of items the amendment of which would as we are advised secure increased employment to ten, thirty, forty, or fifty people, but we appreciate how difficult it is to undertake in the time at our disposal to deal with all of them. What we have done is to take these industries that we believe are in a sense the key industries of this country, where activity may be stimulated and employment ensured in the largest possible degree. And we are confident that the measures we have taken to secure the consumer against exploitation coupled with increased production to supply in Canadian factories by the work of Canadian men and women, the requirements of Canadians, will result in doing much with the legislation that has been submitted to the House to meet the emergency conditions which necessitated the calling together of Parliament at this time."

"We have very definite assurance from those who are charged with producing in this country that as a result of the action we are taking they will increase the number of men and women in their mills and factories. I said the other day, Mr. Speaker that the number might be estimated at 25,000 for a reasonable time. I think that is too low an estimate, but I desired that the estimate should be at least conservative, as in keeping with the party for which I speak at this moment. When I say 25,000, I think I am understating the number of men and women who will find employment by reason of the action that we are taking.

Mr. Richard Rowland, for many years a resident of the Lacombe District, died on Monday last after a long illness. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon, interment being made in Lacombe cemetery. Besides his widow, several sons and daughters reside in the community, to whom the sympathy of many friends is extended.

Next Monday all laundry done at Lin Hing's up-to-date laundry will be washed and ironed with a Maytag equipped Maytag Ironer. Get your laundry in early Monday morning, no increase in price for this service. Across street from Globe office.

Government Has 54 Majority On Tariff Vote

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—In the second division of the session, the new Conservative government was accorded a majority of 54. British cons last night on an amendment by former Premier Mackenzie King for a six months' halt on the measure to dumping. The vote was 116 nays and 62 ayes. The bill comes up for third reading today.

The division found the government supported by Robert Gardner, H. E. Spencer, D. M. Kennedy, Alfred Speckman, W. T. Lucas, Milton Campbell William Irvine and M. Lockvitch of the U.P.A. group, in addition to A. W. Neil, Independent. Supporting the Opposition amendment were Miss Agnes MacPhail, Progressive; J. Woodworth, A. A. Heaps and A. MacInnis, Labor, together with G. G. Cooke, U.P.A. Conservative and Liberal party lines stood solid.

This Great Healing Oil Must Banish Eczema and Skin Troubles Or Your Money Back

Make up your mind to-day that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well. Never mind what caused it—you've probably been, like a lot of other people, convinced that the only thing you can use is an ointment or salve (some of them are very good), but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores, and the condition primarily remains the same.

READ WHAT EDMUND ENGLISH FOUND OUT ABOUT G. W. G. STOP-LOSS POCKET OVERALLS

Here is his letter.

Fleet, Alberta, May 8, 1930
The Great Western Garment Co., Edmonton, Alberta.

Dear Sirs:

I am writing to tell you how your G.W.G. Overall have saved me time, money and worry since I have been wearing them.

I can recall, not many years ago, when, as well as all the rest of my friends, I had the trouble of wearing every-day brand of overall. Whenever any of them saw me, they would say, "It always looks like you are going to have to change them." I agreed that there were many times when I had to change them.

Last Fall I helped a combined harrow, and carried with me all the time a standard crescent wrench as well as a pair of pliers, carrying both in the stop-loss pocket on the right leg of a pair of G.W.G. Overall. I kept working around a farm, and when in a different position every day, a fellow can hardly imagine a pair of pliers, a wrench and a pair of pliers, with a stop-loss pocket, in their slipping out of my good drug store, and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength).

The very first application will give you relief, and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by using faithfully to it for a short while, your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

One bottle we know will show you beyond all question that you have at last discovered one sure way to restore your skin to perfect health. Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating antiseptic oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue, and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

"Sarah and Son"

The powerful dramatic ability of Ruth Chatterton, displayed so successfully in "Charming Sinners," "The Laughing Lady" and "Mademoiselle X" will be again brought forward for the delight of her numerous admirers when the Avalon theatre shows her newest film "Sarah and Son" Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"Sarah and Son" is the story of an impoverished actress who is forced to give up her baby boy that she might work and live. On becoming famous she tries to retrieve the lad but encounters intrigue upon the part of the wealthy couple who have adopted her child. The manner in which she accomplishes her courageous mission forms climax of the picture. It is tense and breath-taking—but it is one which leaves an audience in a happy glow of good spirit.

Frederic March is cast opposite Miss Chatterton. He plays the part of the young lawyer who falls in love with her and tries to help her retrieve her young son, played by Philippe de Lacy. There is an abundance of splendid character-portrayal in the picture.

Timothy Shea wrote the original novel upon which the screen story is based. Zoe Akina, renowned American woman poet and playwright wrote the adaptation from the novel. The picture was directed by Dorothy Arzner, Paramount's only woman director.

Senator Forke to Sell Own 1930 Crop

OTTAWA, Sept. 12.—While not criticizing the Wheat Pool or the principles behind its operation, Hon. Robert Forke, former minister of immigration in the King government and a prominent Manitoba farmer, announced in the Senate Thursday that he had not renewed his contract this year. He was speaking in the debate in reply to the speech from the throne.

After saying that he had been a pool member for five years, Senator Forke declared he had "no criticism to make with the Wheat Pool. I did have some fault to find with some of the extravagant statements made certain officials—statements that I did not believe had a good effect upon the operations of the Wheat Pool in the world's market."

After adding that his action was not condemnatory of the principles leading to the Pool's organization, Senator Forke merely stated that when his contract expired he failed to renew it.

Later, the former Cabinet Minister said:

"I might say that I have never on any occasion publicly or privately criticized in any way the Pool's actions. My reason for declining not to continue with the Wheat Pool is a purely personal one. At the end of the contract period I did not like the statements and actions of some officials of the Pool, and some farmers in Saskatchewan who were suggesting a compulsory pool, an organization which farmers would be forced to join if they did not do so voluntarily. I disagreed with that attitude and that is the only reason why I did not renew my contract. I had no dissatisfaction with the conduct of the Pool. I may say I am a member of the Coarse Grain Pool and my barley and other products go to that Pool. I have simply retained my personal liberty in selling wheat. I thought that some people who belonged to the Pool were trying to infringe on what I considered to be personal liberty."

The organization of the Pool, Senator Forke said, came about through a belief on the part of the Prairie farmers that they were at the mercy of the grain trade. It was organized, however, not to fix prices nor with the object of controlling markets but simply as a means of marketing produce. Previously the combined wheat crop of the three western provinces was thrown on the market at one time resulting in depressed prices. The Wheat Pool was started for the purpose of regulating the marketing of wheat so that supply would more nearly keep pace with demand. He thought the idea was a good one, and had been followed down to the present, and until last year was successfully put in operation.

Senator Forke thought considerable misapprehension existed with regard to what happened last year. At that time the British Government entered into an agreement with the Argentine Republic to buy its wheat and make payment with British Products. At that time it was felt by the Wheat Pool officials that the price of wheat was too low, and there was no doubt that wheat was held back to a certain extent. Everybody, including the Wheat Pool officials did the same thing. Everybody, including the Wheat Pool officials, guessed wrong.

But it should not be overlooked, he said, that if the Wheat Pool had acted differently and thrown wheat on the market there would have been a severe drop in price and it would have been severely criticized. The Wheat Pool officials had declared, he said, that when they were charged with holding back wheat they were endeavoring to sell it at a profitable price. Mr. Forke did not think the Wheat Pool or no other organization could successfully defy the fundamental law of supply and demand. He did think that the officials of the Pool had exaggerated the benefits that a farmer would receive by becoming a member of the Pool, and thought these exaggerated statements had created in some European countries and in Great Britain a time that worked to the disadvantage of the wheat growers and sellers in the West.

THOUSANDS ARE KILLED YEARLY IN EARTHQUAKES

The recent earthquake in Italy has drawn attention to the heavy loss of life that may occur within a small area, and has shown how serious must be the total loss every year in all the earthquake countries of the world.

In his recent work, "Our Mobile Earth," Professor R. A. Daly quotes an estimate made by one of the early seismologists, Robert Mallet, that in nearly 4,000 years earthquakes have caused the loss of 13,000,000 lives. Pointing to "the new pestilence, the automobile," he adds that this rate is only one sixth of that at which the automobile is destroying lives in the United States alone.

I have been led (writes Mr. Charles Davidson, Sc.D., in the Times) by this interesting comparison to attempt a new estimate of the average annual loss of life from earthquakes, for Mallet does not seem to have been acquainted with the figures for some of the most destructive earthquakes on record—with those, for instance, of the Indian earthquake of 1737, when 353,000 persons were killed, and of the Chinese earthquake in 1556, in which more than 850,000 persons are said to have lost their lives. Even during the present century the three great earthquakes of Messina in 1908, Northwest China in 1920, and Japan in 1923, if spread over the whole century, would give average of at least 5,500 deaths a year, a figure that is rather higher than Mallet's rate for all the earthquakes of a century.

In 1911 the late Professor Milne published the great catalogue of destructive earthquakes for the whole world. It begins with the Christian era and ends with the year 1899. During the last century covered by the catalogue cannot be otherwise than very nearly complete. The total number of earthquakes recorded from 1800 to 1899 is 2,096, of which 1222 were just strong enough to crack some walls or throw down a few chimneys, 610 unroofed or shattered buildings, while 354 were so powerful that whole towns were destroyed and districts devastated, a class in which the recent Italian earthquake would, no doubt, have been placed. For our present purpose the first class may be neglected, since few, if any, of them can have resulted in an appreciable loss of life.

In his valuable catalogue of Italian earthquakes ("I Terremoti d'Italia"), Dr. Mario Baratta gives the number of lives lost during nearly every destructive shock of the last three centuries. He describes 35 earthquakes of Milne's third or highest degree of intensity and 125 of the second. In eight of the latter however, the numbers of deaths were too high, ranging from 200 to 20,000, that I have transferred them to the higher grade, thus giving 43 earthquakes of the third and 117 of the second degree. The total number of deaths caused by earthquakes of the third degree was 181,590, or 4,222 per earthquake. The number due to earthquakes of the second degree was 971, or 8.3 deaths per earthquake. Thus, if we may assume that the Italian rates prevail for the whole world, during the nineteenth century, the average number of deaths every year would be 15,368 for earthquakes of the third degree and 42 for those of the second, a total of 15,410.

It may be urged with some force that to apply the Italian rates to the whole world would magnify the total loss. Owing to the faulty construction of the older Italian houses and to the situation of many of the towns on the summits of the steep hills the death rates in some cities are far above the average for other countries. To realize this we have only to recall that 41 per cent. of the inhabitants of Casamicciola were killed during the Ischia earthquake in 1883, 50 per cent. of those at Messina during the earthquake of 1908, 71 per cent. at Montemurro during the Neapolitan earthquake of 1857, 77 per cent. at Terranova during the Calabrian earthquakes of 1783, and 81 per cent. at Avondula during the Neapolitan earthquake of 1792. On the other hand, the area of destruction in Italian earthquakes is always unusually small—in the

IT'S WISE TO CHOOSE A SIX

2,000,000 Six-Cylinder Chevrolets now on the road

SINCE January, 1929, Chevrolet has produced and sold over 2,000,000 six-cylinder automobiles—nearly five times as many as any manufacturer of sixes has ever built in an equal length of time.

Such record-breaking public preference shows how buyers of low-priced cars are demanding the advantages of six-cylinder design. These 2,000,000 people decided on Chevrolet largely because of the following facts:

Chevrolet is Smoother

A six-cylinder engine is smoother, quieter, more flexible—free from annoying vibration—requires less gear-shifting. And Chevrolet gives you a dependable, 50-horsepower, six-cylinder power plant!

More Comfortable, Smarter

Chevrolet is the lowest-priced Six which offers you a rugged full-length chassis with modern semi-elliptic spring suspension—big bodies with forming seats—the style and luxury advantages of Body by Fisher.

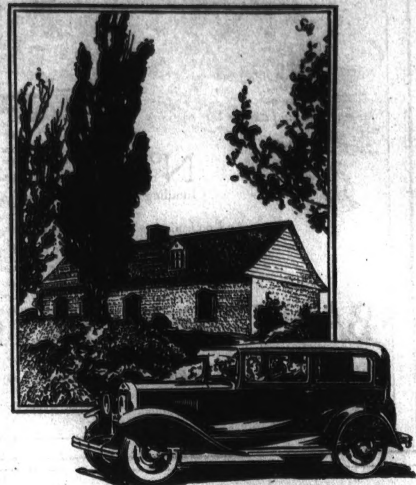

Easy to Buy and Own

The Chevrolet Six is priced as low as $635, at the factory. And you will find it costs no more for operation or upkeep than any other car of comparable quality on the road. You may purchase through the G.M.A.C. General Motors' own deferred payment plan. The General Motors Owner Service Policy will safeguard your investment.

The ABC of Vitamins And Where to Find Them

BY EDWINA NOLAN

Director of Home Service, General Electric Refrigeration Department

CHILDREN—and adults, for that matter—need food containing the various vitamins, if they are to enjoy health and vigor and even disposition.

Take vitamin A away from a child and he is underfed. Lacking vitamin B, growth is stunted. Without vitamin C, scurvy may develop. And vitamin D is essential to assimilation of food.

In what foods are these vitamins found? Let the United States Department of Agriculture answer:

Vitamin A—Some common sources of vitamin A are avocados, bananas, string beans, butter, carrots, cheese, cod-liver oil, dried cowpeas, cream, dandelions and other greens, eggs, lentils, lettuce, liver, milk, peas, sweet potatoes, spinach, squash and tomatoes.

Vitamin B—Common sources are asparagus, dried and fresh beans, brains, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, egg yolk, fish roe, grapefruit, kidney, lemons, lentils, lettuce, liver, milk, nuts, okra, onions, oranges, parsley, parsnips, peas, potatoes, pineapples, rutabagas, spinach and other greens, tomatoes and whole grain products.

Vitamin C—Found in apples, bananas, cabbage, young carrots, cauliflower, grapefruit, guavas, lemons, onions, oranges, peaches, peas, pineapples, potatoes, raspberries, rutabagas, spinach, sprouted legumes, string beans and tomatoes.

As to vitamin D, this is supplied through open-air sunbathing. From your physician's ultra-violet ray machine, or from doses of good old-fashioned cod-liver oil.

All the vitamin alphabet belongs in the family diet. Say it with milk and fruits and vegetables—with wide variety—and the chances are that you will have included most of the essential vitamins. Parsnips, properly refrigerated and wholesome, are necessary.

The person with a charming disposition usually is properly vitaminized. By the same token, he with a grouchy, a snappy or a snarl may be lacking a vitamin.

to carry on the research work and the measurement of streams in the conditions of the transfer, and hence your local office doing this work will likely be retained by the Federal government to carry on this work as in the past, with the exception of the irrigation work," Premier Brownlee remarked.

Regarding possible changes in regulations on the petroleum and natural gas leases, the premier stated that the details of the department had yet to be worked out before the transfer could be made.

"I don't expect any drastic changes for the time being, although there may be some later on," he stated.

In conclusion, Premier Brownlee stated organization of the work for transfer of the department had been given nearly all of his time since he came back from the East, and that the Mines Branch was about the only one which had not been fairly well settled. The announcement concerning details will be made in a short time.

"We have pretty well decided in our own minds who the heads of the branches will be, also who the minister and deputy will be, and this will be made public in a few days," the premier said.

Bootleg Sales of Wheat Bring Action by When? Pool

Winnipeg, Man., "Bootlegging" of Pool grain Thursday engaged new attention from the Manitoba branch of the world's greatest co-operative body—the Canadian Wheat Pool. Action in seeking 11 interim injunctions against Central Manitoba Pool members at Winnipeg Wednesday, was followed by further injunctions, obtained against farmers in the western section of the province. At least six have been obtained at Brandon.

The alleged "bootlegging" consists in violation of the five-year pool contract by delivering grain to other than Pool elevators. It is stated that outbreaks of contract violation have been noted in several parts of the province due to the claim of erring farmers that the initial payment of 60 cents per bushel on No. 1 Northern is insufficient to carry them on.

Injunctions sought by the Pool ask that pool members be restrained from disposing of grain to other companies, but do not ask damages. The procedure is first to file the action, then to take out an injunction order. Those withheld from action under injunction are unable to market their grain, except to the Pool before the sitting of the King's Bench Court. Sessions are listed for Winnipeg, Sept. 19, and for Brandon, Sept. 7. A number of cases have been settled out of court.

Attention is directed especially to those cases in which defences have been filed. It is known that two cases at Brandon, one defence alleges that 1929 grain has not yet been disposed of by the Pool and that the defendant has suffered losses; another that the defendant has disposed of, or threatened to dispose of grain to other agencies.

Wages and Prosperity

When leading American industrialists conferred with the President of the United States last fall a number of them pledged themselves to a policy of maintaining existing wage rates. It was not an easy pledge to give with a period of depression quite obviously staring them in the face. It was no easier for organized labor at the same time to pledge itself to abide by existing wage scales until the economic storm should pass. It was a pledge not taken as in a scientific basis; for, said organized labor, if industry agrees to launch great construction programmes to create additional employment investors must have reasonable assurance that these will not be followed by demands for higher wages. Since then this policy has been the subject of much consideration. Is it sound or unsound? Is it justified by past experience and practical economies?

Many phases of the contemporary economic problem of the United States are not applicable to Canada, although a great deal of breath and ink are wasted in their discussion in this country as though they were. But fundamental economic truths are pretty much the same the world over and here is one which is common to all of us. It is treated in the Sept. 6th issue of The Magazine of Wall Street by John P. Frey.

There is more general agreement today than formerly on the relation between wages and production, and the keynote of Frey's theories is our old friend "Mass Production Means Mass Buying." He states the extreme case of a country employing coille labor where for very obvious reasons there is no market for the radio and the automobile, for clothing or furniture or anything but the bare necessities of life. Where even the building industry cannot be supported. Therefore business flourishes in direct ratio to the purchasing power of the masses, the investor receives a return for his money and the wage earner finds opportunity for employment. Having established this premise he goes on to argue that the increased use of machinery in production calls for higher, not lower, wages. For the rapid increase in the use of power, the production of new types of machines, the improvement in technical and chemical processes, the more intelligent direction of production, have created an entirely new situation. Power and machinery in a most extraordinary manner have taken the place of the workman's brawn and skill. To be beneficial to national prosperity, this increased capacity to produce must be accompanied by an increased purchasing ability to consume. There is only one way to do it.

Not by theory alone but by concrete instance he illustrates the phenomenon of "increased wage rates accompanied by constantly reduced manufacturers' prices." But wages cannot be paid unless wealth is produced yet "industry and commerce must suffer unless the worker's real wage, the purchasing power of wages, increases in proportion to industry's increasing capacity to produce." And, in fine—

We cannot stimulate industry's capacity to produce by reducing wages; and, through that action, limiting the wage earner's influence as a consumer.

MEADOWBROOK NEWS

Glad to see such a large congregation out last Sunday, still there is room for a few more.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Heath have moved out the Heath farm.

Carl Christensen has returned home from the south.

Mrs. Joe Long, Roy, Misses Edna and Ruby Lord motored out to John Eadie's last Sunday after services.

The Ladies Aid meeting was postponed last Thursday owing to the breakers being in our district. Nick Riley is improving as well as expected.

This district must be pretty good when Herbert Long's wheat turned out 45 bushels to the acre. If prices were only higher it would be better.

Dollar and a Half Wheat Unlikely

(Minneapolis Tribune)

The question of whether wheat will ever again sell at $1.50 a bushel occupies the attention of analysts interested in market trends as they may be affected by future developments.

In the Review of Reviews Dr. Albert Shaw declares that $1.50 wheat is possible and that it can be achieved and the tariff made effective when wheat production is on the basis of domestic consumption.

Just how production is to be arranged on that basis is another question now confusing the best of the authorities and evoking a somewhat paradoxical response from growers.

In the winter wheat belt, from the Texas Panhandle to Kansas growers are proposing to increase wheat production a million acres in 1931. They reason that by using industrialized methods in large scale machinery they can produce wheat at 60c. a bushel and sell it profitably at 70c. They frankly propose to force the small wheat grower in the corn belt out of business. On a small farm it costs around $1 per bushel to grow wheat. Under modern agricultural methods, it is estimated this is just the small wheat grower's hard luck.

It does not appear the Kansas growers have considered the fact that in large areas of the northwest, using the same methods there proposed, wheat can be produced at a cost as low as 10c. a bushel and that there is prospect that the vexatious surplus problem will be aggravated.

In Russia industrialized farming is being adopted in great areas by the Communist state with the prospect that production costs may be cut to 25 cents a bushel. That country will soon be in the world market. Some large scale farmers in this country demonstrated cost records as low as 35 cents a bushel.

Under these conditions it would appear that $1.50 wheat would inevitably result in a surplus production that would quickly cut the price to a fair margin above production costs and force the grower out of business who cannot compete on the small farm with the production costs possible in large scale farming. When that happens $1.50 wheat would be a boon to banana farmers. But it is a question how long those who eat bread would submit to a price dictated by an arbitrary price of $1.50 for wheat which it cost less than 50 cents to produce.

Altogether the future outlook for $1.50 wheat is not rosy. There is a rather ruthless process of adjustment in prospect for the small wheat grower. Yet when it is accomplished, as it most evidently must be, he will be better off than he is today.

Thousands of northwest farmers who have foreseen this condition, and have prepared for it by intelligent programs of balanced farming today are not worrying about wheat prices. They probably could not be stampeded back to wheat production by $1.50 wheat, knowing it would bring inevitable surplus production and consequent reaction.

The question of whether wheat ever again reaches the price of $1.50 a bushel is annually becoming of less consequence in the northwest.

Watch Your Cars

When leaving your car for any length of time parked on the streets, be sure that the doors of the car are securely locked and all windows raised. If your car is an open model, it would be well to give it the once over occasionally if there is anything of value in it. On Saturday night, Heib, Lauglin parked his car downtown, and on returning to it found that some $10.00 worth of merchandise had been stolen. It would be wise not to leave anything of much value in the car at all when it is going to be left for any length of time.

Display of Produce

CROWDS STOP TO SEE
DISPLAY IN McDERMID
DRUG STORE WINDOW

If you haven't seen the display of farm produce in the McDermid Drug Store Window, you have missed a treat, and should not hesitate a minute to make a visit to it.

In this window, Mr. Berggren, head horticulturist of the Dominion Experimental Station here, has put before the public the results of his season's activities at the farm, and to say he has done wonders does not constitute to describe the wonderful showing he has made.

It is not impossible to believe that all the produce shown was grown "right here at Lacombe, in a dry year," but it's the truth. None of the vegetables or flowers, or berries or fruit, have had a drop of moisture, except that which fell from the sky, and Mr. Berggren says, "What couldn't we grow if we had irrigation?"

The centre of the stage is held by a "giant pumpkin," which weighs in the neighborhood of forty pounds. Squash of many varieties, including one seldom seen in these parts "Acorn Squash"; Vegetable Marrows, Cucumbers, Peas, Beans, Corn, Cider Tomatoes, Carrots and the whole lot of old fashioned vegetables, stand side by side, with the fruits, including Plums, Crab Apples, Cherries, Currants, Raspberries and Strawberries and Gooseberries, which are not off by a mass of flowers, forming a background of splendor unsurpassable.

Mr. Berggren is most enthusiastic over the sample of the new "Rolly Rhabarb" a variety evolved by the Dominion Experimental Station. This rhubarb is acclaimed at the British Empire Fairs as the finest rhubarb in the Empire, with an odor of Strawberry and a very sweet flavor. It is we think one of the "finest" preserving fruits one could find.

It would be impossible to go into minute detail in regard to this display—one must see it to appreciate it, and once you see it you will be astounded to think such vegetables possible this year. Mr. Berggren and his helpers deserve a lot of credit for the showing made; also does the Lacombe District. And we would suggest to the McDermid Drug Co., that this display be kept in the window at least another week, so as to give the entire public a chance to see what can be grown in the Lacombe District.

Maytag Representative In Lacombe

Lacombe, Sept. 18.—C. C. Walker, Blockman, of Calgary was in Lacombe this morning, and in an interview with a reporter of the Western Globe, gave a very interesting account of the life and struggles of Mr. E. H. Maytag, pioneer settler in the State of Iowa, walking there from Indiana beside an ox cart, shortly after the Civil War, was later the choice of the citizens of his state to represent them as United States Senator, at Washington, D.C. "It is truly remarkable," remarked Mr. Walker, "to trace the life of this farm boy, who is to-day one of the leading purebred Hereford Cattle raisers in the United States and internationally known as the leading washing machine manufacturer of the world. Starting about 1880 to perfect a device to make life easier for the farm woman, his patent rights now cover a machine which will last through the average length of human life, which is equally available to the farm woman without electricity and her city neighbor who has electric power."

"Mr. Maytag and Thos. A. Edison are friends, owned winter homes alongside each other in the flowery climate of Florida, and each are leaders in their respective lines. We are selling four Maytags, today, for every machine sold by any other single manufacturer."

"How do you find the Maytags stand up?" Mr. Walker was asked. "That is one of the chief points of Maytag's superiority," he replied.

"Mrs. Marshall down the street here has a Maytag which she has been using for over seven years. She is a very careful woman, has several small children, and washes from twice to three times per week. In that time she has used her machine, perhaps as much as the average woman would use one in fifteen years. Her machine has never cost a cent for repairs, and apparently will last for at least ten years longer. Incidentally, I understand that Mrs. Marshall has the reputation of putting out one of the whitest washes in town."

"Then there is Hal Laird. There is a man who is able to buy the best. He tried out several makes last spring, and his choice is the Maytag. He tells me that his wife would write out a cheque for One Thousand Dollars rather than have that machine taken away—that is if she couldn't get another. Of course, the new model like a Maytag which has the silent, oil-packed drive, of spiral cut gears just like the rear end of the late motor cars."

Mr. Walker has a large district, having some 20 dealers under his direction. He expects to spend part of his time in the Lacombe, Rimby and Leduc districts until October 1.

Spruceville News

CHICKEN SUPPER
Spruceville will hold their Annual Chicken Supper in the hall on Friday, October 24th. Keep this date in mind and watch for further announcements.

Mr. and Mrs. Gottschlich and Clara, motored to Hanna recently to visit Mr. and Mrs. Art Benson.

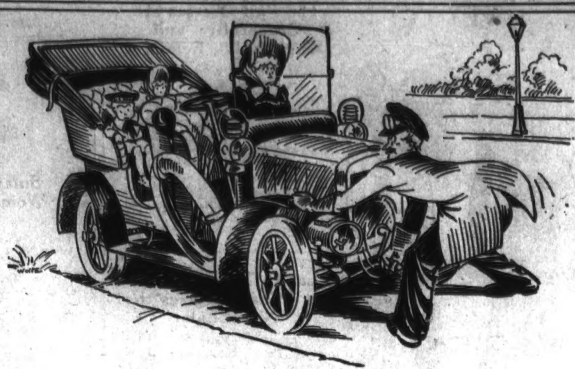

The afternoon meeting, at Mrs. Nelson Hall's was well attended, considering the fact that so many were busy with threshers. Interesting papers were given by Mrs. Heath on Legislation and Mrs. Gottschlich on the Health Meeting. All spent a very enjoyable afternoon.

Misses Mary and Eleanor Riglands are at home for their holidays. Miss Clara Gottschlich spent a few days in Edmonton last week. A large congregation attended the Harvest Home Service last Sunday. The hall was nicely decorated for the occasion.

Threshing is in full swing, and the grain is yielding better than expected. Young's wheat yielded 60 and 64 bushels per acre by weight.

LAKEVIEW W.I.

The Lakeview W.I. are planning to hold a tea and sale of home baking in the Lacombe Rest Room on Saturday, October 25th. Don't forget the date.

Of Course You'd Laugh If You Saw This Today!

You'd probably chortle loud and long if you actually came upon this energetic gentleman trying to inject a little life and enthusiasm into his mid-Victorian bus!

But many a man who wouldn't take his wife riding in an out-moded car allows her to struggle along at home with antiquated household equipment. Homes thoroughly modern in every other way frequently are equipped with out-dated and inadequate wiring systems.

It's a very simple matter to modernize your home... electric servants of all kinds are inexpensive to buy... and so thrifty to operate. You owe it to friend wife to see that she gets an electric vacuum cleaner, washing machine, ironer or at least one of the dozens of electric servants that will make life easier and happier for her.

Call in our representative, C. F. Danner; you will be amazed at the attractive terms upon which you can buy.

Early Showing of the New Modes for Fall

They are Gracefully and Delightfully Feminine

The Fall Dresses are Gracefully and Delightfully Feminine

Lovelier than ever before... graceful new lines giving the irresistible appeal of femininity... novelty touches insuring individuality and distinction. They mark a distinct departure from the boyish and fussy fashion of the past few years. Dull finished silks for afternoon and evening. Woolens and smart prints for street or travel. Featuring the new wine shades, rich browns and season's outstanding success.

BLACK!

Lavish Trimming of Fur Characterizes the New Coats

They speak of Paris with their slightly fitted lines accentuating slenderness of waist and hips. Truly gorgeous are the fur-trimmings comprising elaborate collar and cuff treatments of Wolf, Caracul, Sable, Muskrat and Janette.

Soft, smooth surface fabrics are pre-eminent, and the tailoring is absolutely faultless. Black carries off the fashion honors closely followed by browns, greens and blues.

A. M. CAMPBELL'S

Red Deer Deanery

A meeting of the Red Deer Deanery was held in St. Peter's Church, Bashaw, on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 9th and 10th, with the Rev. W. T. H. Cripps, Rural Dean, and the following Clergy whose names appear below, in attendance. Revs. Jackson Archer, Olds; Neville Blunt, Imisfall; T. J. Chapman, Lacombe; G. J. Fielder, Delburne, and Wm. P. Griffiths, Mirror. The Revs. A. D. Currie, of Crossfield and Victor Smith, of Rocky Mountain House were the only members of the Deanery who were not in attendance.

At 6:30 p.m., on Tuesday, September 9th, the abovementioned, together with several officials of St. Peter's Church, Bashaw, and also the Lord Mayor of the town, were present at a banquet which was given in honour of the visiting Clergy at the Alberta Hotel; there being in all, twelve guests at the table. Immediately after the banquet, all were kindly entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall.

At 8 p.m., Public Evensong was said in St. Peter's Church, the service being conducted by the Rector, and the Lessons read by the Rev. Neville Blunt; while the Rev. G. J. Fielder preached the Sermon, which was based on three of Our Blessed Lord's momentous words, viz: "Come", "Tarry" and "Go". Rev. Fielder leaves in October to take up work in a Parish in the British West Indies, and the best wishes of his Brother Clergy in the Deanery accompany both him and Mrs. Fielder for every success and happiness in their new field of labour.

At 8 a.m., on Wednesday, 10th, there was a Celebration of the Holy Communion at which there were twenty eight communicants; and it was a gladdening sight to see such a splendid representation of A.Y.P.A. members at this Service.

Breakfast was partaken of at the homes of the hosts and hostesses of the visiting Clergy; and at 9:30 a.m. Mattins was said by the Rev. T. H. Chapman, the Rev. Neville Blunt reading the Lessons.

From 10 to 11 the Rural Dean conducted highly profitable Quiet Hour for the Clergy. The Rural Dean's address, while being of a very practical nature, was, at the same time noted to be understood throughout, by a deep and reverent spirituality. It provided one with much food for thought.

At 11:15, following the customary Prayers, the Chapter Meeting was called to order by the Rural Dean, and much business of importance, both to the Deanery and the Diocese, was transacted before the Motion for adjournment at 12:55 p.m. A delicious luncheon was served by the Parishioners at the Alberta Hotel.

Shortly after luncheon, the visiting Clergy dispersed to return to their respective Charges, stopping en route at St. Monica's Rectory, Mirror, for the refreshment of "The cup that cheers, but not inebriates," which was so thoughtfully provided by the Rev. Wm. P. and Mrs. Griffiths.

France Gives Hearst the Air

If there is any international ill-feeling between the United States and France because William Randolph Hearst has been given the gate it will not be because of that but because Hearst's return to the United States has thereby been expedited. The king of yellow journalism has as his mission in life the creation of ill-feeling between his own and the other civilised countries. And there he is the enemy of his own country whose aspiration is to live at peace with the world. True, he has always maintained a respectful if not always a courteous attitude toward Canada, but that is because he hopes for the circulation of his newspaper in this Dominion.

For a host to call a taxi and inform one of his guests that he will find his baggage on the sidewalk ought to be embarrassing for anything with a sense of delicacy. But Hearst (rather unsuccessfully) to laugh it off and explains to the world that this is France's revenge for the Horan incident of two years ago when an unscrupulous Hearst reporter assailed a confidential document by false pretences and a still less scrupulous publisher printed them. But the Government of France says: "The French Government has always expelled foreigners who are constantly hostile to France. Mr. Hearst is a Franco-phobe and we prefer that he should do his criticizing outside of France." The Horan affair of 1928 formed only a part of the reasons why Mr. Hearst was asked to leave.

It is not the way we would have handled the situation, of course. We would have permitted, invited, pressed him to remain and make himself as much at home and as objectionable as he pleased. There is no doubt what they will do in England whether he has gone. That is what we would do in Canada just as we allow his many newspapers to circulate and contaminate our immigrant population without let or hindrance. It is one of the eccentricities of that strange anomaly called British liberty.

erty. But perhaps the French have the right idea.

Nobody's Business But His Own

It had been hoped in every political camp all over Canada that Mr. Massey would go to London as High Commissioner for Canada, in spite of the change of Government. The reasons for this hope were multiple. In the first place, we all have a personal regard for Mr. Massey. In the second place, we have seen that he has special gifts for diplomatic work—witness his service at Washington—and in the third place we had hoped that the new Canadian diplomatic service would be raised above politics.

But now it transpires that Mr. Massey himself chose to resign a little more than a month ago. Without questioning, as one might, the reason for the month's secrecy it ought to be remarked that the Government must not be reproached with having brought the diplomatic service into politics. There is cause to hope that Mr. Massey's resignation from the service does not portend to depart from British practice of separating the diplomatic corps from party politics. Neither may Mr. Massey because of his voluntary act be reproached for having done so. It is by no means the first occasion on which a British minister plenipotentiary has felt impelled to resign because his conscience was at variance with the policies of his government. It is true that the conflict was closely akin to party politics. In his letter to the Prime Minister, tendering his resignation, he said: "In our discussion on this subject you were good enough to make clear your view that the office of High Commissioner should be held by someone in close association with the Government of the day." But that is the position of any ambassador or minister plenipotentiary. It is his duty to represent the Government at whatever post he may be stationed and to represent them he must necessarily be "in close political association" with them. If Mr. Massey felt that he could not conscientiously maintain this association, to be sure he was perfectly right in resigning as many another diplomatic officer has done.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

On Tuesday, Sept. 9th, just prior to their proceeding to a meeting of the Red Deer Deanery at Bashaw, the Rev. W. T. H. Cripps, Rural Dean, and also the Revs. Jackson Archer, of Olds and Neville Blunt, of Imisfall were luncheon guests of the Rev. T. H. and Mrs. Chapman at St. Cyprian's Rectory, Lacombe; the oc-

The luncheon table and rooms were beautifully graced with a profusion of sweet peas, the color scheme of decoration being pink and white throughout. Mrs. Chapman was very kindly and ably assisted by Mrs. Jack Russell and Mrs. Norman Glasgow.

The Rural Dean and visiting clergy provided a delightful surprise for the guest of honor when they presented him with a lovely gift, which was accompanied by the heartiest of good wishes.

The Baptist Ladies' Aid have chosen Saturday, Nov. 15th for the date of their annual bazaar. Keep the date in mind.
